

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A MODERN AP TEAM

In a recent survey of accounts payable professionals, only 12 percent of respondents claimed their company was operating at today's modern standards. This leaves the day-to-day work of the vast majority of accounts payable employees filled with tedious manual tasks.

What does a typical workday look like for employees leveraging technology for modern accounts payable processing?

Let's take a look at a day in the life of Adam.

9:00AM

PLAN OUT DAY WITH COWORKER

Companies that consider themselves to be modern automate at least two AP processes. As a result, teams of 1-2 employees are able to keep on top of all invoice payments with no additional hiring required, even as their company (and vendor list) grows.

RAPID INVOICE CAPTURING

10:00AM

Data entry is typically the second-most time-consuming part of an AP professional's day. With modern accounts payable technology available today, Adam can work through this process 3x faster than employees with antiquated processes.

FASTER ERROR RECONCILIATION

With invoice capture guaranteed at 99.5% accuracy through AP Automation, long days of error reconciliation are a thing of the past for Adam.

LUNCH BREAK

12:00PM

Modern AP teams are twice as likely to keep up with their daily requirements, and enjoy a break in the middle of the day instead of always working through lunch.

1:00PM

CASH IN ON REBATES TO BOOST SHORT-TERM CASH FLOW

Almost 80 percent of companies with accounts payable software use credit cards to cash in on rebates. Adam and his CFO both like rebates.

WORK ON A NEW PROJECT

2:00PM

Companies that have automated systems save as much as 64 hours every month to rededicate to value-added initiatives.
